Institute Committee on Projects Relating to Productivity (ICPRP) records consist of various documents related to the organization and its activities. The first part of the collection contains promotions and committee member information. There are brochures that were intended to walk faculty through the grant application process and a work report that lists the different responsibilities of committee members. The collection also contains official grant proposals from departments and faculty. One of the proposed plans for a grant was for Microcomputer-Based Literacy Courses. This focused on devising more productive methods of providing high quality instruction for the large number of students interested in taking introduction computer classes.
