The Department of Communication records contain information about the events, lectures and curriculum. Many of the promotional materials and correspondence relate to the William A. Kern Conference. This is an annual 3-day event hosted by the department that examines issues relating to the communication field. Also included are student handbooks about the Professional and Technical Communication undergraduate degree. These handbooks outline the various courses offered, the curriculum for the department and answers to frequently asked questions. There are also various promotions and information brochures on lectures that the department hosted.
